

Say No More

2025 Edition

The Guide Every Modern Traveller, Digital Nomad and Local in Cyprus Needs

by Demetris Tzionis

What's This?

A FREE guide packed with everything you need – all in one place.

It's more suited for the curious traveller than the tourist ticking off the island's top attractions. Dive into local tips, offbeat activities, and lesser-known places that help you feel the vibe of the island and from laptop-friendly spots to annual events – even live petrol prices! Before you know it, Cyprus won't just be a stop on your journey – it'll start to feel a bit like home.

The guide will be kept up-to-date with new content and relevant changes.

QR codes will lead you to maps or websites. They are also clickable. They will always point to an up-to-date version of the map.

This means something is clickable (leading to an external URL).

About Demetris

Creating things is life-giving. I love working on technology and travel projects. In the past, I've built and fired a potato cannon, designed a 3D-printed phone holder for plane journeys, and, more recently, I've been writing a book about my experience walking the Camino Francés. Say No More had been in my head for some time, and it was finally time to give it substance.

If you like what you see and find it useful, please consider supporting the project.

Laptop-Friendly Spots

The number of digital nomads and remote workers around the world is growing by the day. We all know the struggle of finding work-friendly spaces that not only support productivity but also offer the chance to connect with like-minded people. Fortunately Cyprus does not suffer in this area.

Map

This is a collection of laptop-friendly spots around the island, ranging from cafes, libraries and co-working spaces. It is a non-exhaustive map in which new spots will be added.

Logistics & Transfers

The island's public transport network is gradually improving. This resource can help ease the headache of getting around without a car.

Experiences

Discovering local experiences offered around Cyprus means you can learn, create and explore new corners of the island at the same time.

Winery visits and wine tasting

Lots of wineries are dotted mainly across the Paphos and Limassol districts, and a winery-hunting road trip is a delightful way to explore some of Cyprus's most charming villages and stunning landscapes. They range from small boutique producers to large-scale wineries.

*As a bonus, most of the grape-producing villages hold festivals – usually in September or October – to celebrate the making of two traditional Cypriot delicacies: shushukos and palouzes.

Olives harvest and olive oil production

Olive oil, the so-called 'liquid gold', is one of the island's main products, much like in other sun-drenched southern Mediterranean regions. The olive harvest and olive oil making magic typically take place between October and December. During these months, you can experience the process first-hand by visiting one of the local olive mills.

Heartland of Legends workshops [FREE OF CHARGE]

The Heartland of Legends initiative offers a wide range of handicraft and enogastronomy experiences across the island, giving you the chance to get hands-on while discovering new places in Cyprus. Workshops range from ceramic art and Byzantine iconography to koupepia-making.

Visit the website for full details: <https://heartlandoflegends.com/workshops/>

Waterfall hunting and dipping

The island boasts a number of refreshing waterfalls. Explore its forests as you hunt down these gems of nature – and if you're brave enough, you can even take a dip in the chilly water for a quick refresh.

Food & Drinks

Cyprus has no shortage of delicious food and coffee. On every corner of the island, you're sure to find something to satisfy the senses. The local cuisine resembles the Greek cuisine, with influences from the Middle East. It is based on the Mediterranean diet, with olive oil used extensively. Main ingredients include lamb, pork, chicken, fresh fish and seafood, herbs, yoghurt, cheese, fruit, and vegetables.

Some typical types of places to be looking for are:

Fournos (Bakery)

The bigger chains stay open 24/7. A local-favorite, especially for pasties or coffee.

Psistaria or Magirio

For home-cooked style food at good prices ask around for one of those.

Souvlatzidiko (Souvlaki place) or Gyradiko (Gyro place)

The island is packed with souvlaki and gyro spots (they often go together). The real challenge is finding the one you enjoy the most! Once a local finds their go-to souvlaki place, they usually become a loyal, long-term customer.

Coffee

If you haven't already noticed within the first 10 minutes of arriving on the island, coffee plays a central role in everyday life in Cyprus! If you want to drink coffee like a local, you should definitely try:

Freddo Espresso

The staple iced coffee that fuels society in both Cyprus and Greece. If you like your coffee strong, this one's for you.

Freddo Cappuccino

If you prefer your coffee milkier, this could be a good option.

Frappé

This old-school iced coffee goes back a long way. It was the go-to choice for decades, but lost its crown when the freddo espresso entered the scene. It's made with instant coffee.

Villages

One of the best ways to discover the island is by going on a road trip and exploring the many villages, from those along the coastline to others tucked away in the mountains. This activity will take you along beautiful, winding roads – perfect for those who enjoy a scenic drive. Along the way, you'll come across friendly locals living a slower pace of life, picturesque village houses, and, of course, delicious traditional food.

Hidden Gems & Activities

Nothing beats experiencing things that are a little harder to come by. Hidden gems are the salt and pepper of a place.

Fikardou village

An old village which retains its old medieval architecture. Literally a living museum.

Monasteries stays

Some monasteries in Cyprus offer free accommodation to those wishing to experience monastic life and practise their faith. Simply contact them to check availability.
